Upland Will Vote On $350,000 Water Bond Issue April 12

A $350,000 bond issue will be on the ballot in the April municipal elections, Upland City Council having voted unanimously in favor of the vote at a special session Tuesday afternoon.

The issue is for general obligation bonds which would be paid off over a 10-year period from city water department revenue, the councilmen were told by City Manager Elwin Alder. Thus the bond issue would not increase the property taxes.

Councilman William Kistinger questioned if water department receipts would be sufficient to pay off the bonds and provide standard maintenance over the 10-year period. Mr. Alder gave assurance that the water revenue is adequate for this program.

County Shares Cost

Mr. Alder reported to the Council an offer from the County Board of Supervisors to pay 50 per cent of the cost, not to exceed $500, of improving the intersection of Benson Ave. and Foothill Blvd. As a cost estimate of $1,000 had been given for the work, the Council authorized the project for immediate attention.

Mr. Alder also reported the State Division of Highways concurs with the Council's findings that the Euclid Ave. on-ramps to San Bernardino Freeway are too short and hazardous. He reported receipt of a letter from the Division of Highways indicating that a study of the Euclid and Central Ave. on-ramps has been under way with plans to correct the ramps being prepared and state funds to be sought for the ramp remodeling.

Authorize Pipe Line

The Councilmen authorized a call for bids on 680 feet of eight inch water line, estimated to cost $3,200, to connect a 24th St. line with a dead-end line on San Antonio Ave. between 23d and 24th Sts. for elimination of a rust problem.

Charles E. Stone was appointed Upland Animal Control Officer for a one-year probationary period, on the recommendation of the city manager.

Civic Center Site

Mr. Alder also urged that the Council give immediate consideration to adoption of a civic center site, as the capital improvements committee had left the final decisions to the city fathers. Mayor Abner Halderman reported the Council has not yet received the capital improvements committee report and recommendations and wil alwait receipt of the report before acting on the controversial civic center issue.

Councilman Philip Holden supported the plan of putting the civic center location question on the ballot in the April elections, so the citizenry could be heard before being asked to vote bonds for civic center development.

Progress Is Viewed Everywhere In 1960

In these dawning days of 1960, no matter where a resident of Upland turns, PROGRESS and CHANGE is found.

The years 1959 and 1960 may, indeed, be characterized as the "turning point" in historical development of the area.

The gigantic changes, the major and substantial announcements of development have started in '59 and will clontinue in '60 and beyond.

Holding its own through the recent recession and steel strike, the Greater Upland area becomes a strong point for Southern California in vast investment, in industrial, business and residential programs.

The year 1960 looms as one of the greatest years yet.

Industrial development unknown but already in the cards, the creation of the McDaniel's and Foothill - Euclid shopping centers, the Medco subdivision growth (to name only one), and the occupation of two major medical clinics, are considered to provide the stepping-stones for additional, as yet unannounced (but on the way), PROGRESS and GROWTH.

The city and school boards face great changes in 1960, including water, sites, parks, street lights, sidewalks, highways, teachers, and buildings. All pose questions which must find answers in 1960.

THE NEWS has been impressed week after week in 1959 with the extent of growth, now and projected, and hopes its First Annual PROGRESS EDITION helps summarize community views and ideas for 1959-60.

Dedicated To Chaffey

This PROGRESS EDITION of your Upland News coincides with occupancy of the new Chaffey College campus.

THE NEWS staff places full emphasis on the importance of the new college campus, its strategic location and the college history of growth and progress in direct proportion to the GROWTH and PROGRESS of the Foothill to Freeway area.

The new campus represents the cornerstone for a new era of progress and mushrooming growth.

The rocky wastes about the new campus are destined for transformation by our expanding communities.

In the wake of such development, the college move appears to be not only historic but the plan of visionaries.

Thus, this 1960 PROGRESS EDITION of THE NEWS is dedicated to Chaffey College.

Progress Rumble Awakens Giant Of Foothills To Future

1959 and 1960 are the turning-point years toward gigantic development and population growth along the Foothills in Upland, Cucamonga, Alta Loma and Etiwanda.

The Giant that is characterized by big blank empty spaces of groves and sagebrush has been stirred.

The quickening interest in shopping centers alone is indicative of major business awareness of the coming changes.

The revitalizing of Upland Shopping Center, which strode sharply ahead in 1959, the creation of the Galvin Park and Ontario Plaza centers, and the launching of McDaniel's center and the promise of the Euclid-Foothill Corp. and others in Cucamonga are indicative of this interest.

The fantastic story of a $15 million Bible Storyland amusement park and recreation center and the Old Western Village proposal should in themselves turn this area into another Disneyland.

Already the building of homes is geared for the new people. Building permits in Upland alone outstripped Ontario in 1959, even with the population ratio 3 to 1 in favor of Ontario.

The avid building of churches and additions is a complete story in itself that tells how the Giant is awakening.

The Foothill area is coming into its own. With such indications as the PTA's splitting off from domination by Ontario, there will be less and less likelihood of allowing Ontario interests to "call the shots" as they would prefer.

The development of our medical facilities, keynoted by our growing community asset, San Antonio Hospital, and major clinic and office space, is most heartening.

Wherever one turns, always there looms this Giant called GROWTH.

It is a Giant that will become more active and alive with every passing week.

We have no fear that our area will be stunted in growth . . . for we see about us testimonials of a supercharged, vitamin fed Giant awakening.

City Has 6 Objectives For 1960; 4-Years Of Stable Growth Cited

Facts Compiled By ELWIN ALDER, City Manager As Told To The NEWS

Outlook for 1960 at Upland city hall is for continued progress in the midst of a stable growth, with City Manager Elwin Alder citing six major objectives for the year as well as listing impressive city achievements of the past four years.

Star billing of the 1960 objectives was given by Mr. Alder to obtainment of an alternate truck route for Euclid Ave. "We consider this alternate route of top importance and we will make every effort to have such a route designated this year."

Water, Civic Center

High priority is also given by the city manager to the program of capital improvements. He cites development of the city water system, as recommended by the capital improvements committee and the Montgomery report, as the first undertaking. Second is the final selection of a civic center site so precise plans can be formulated and property acquired for its development. Headway in the parks and recreation program is also hoped for but must await authorization of funds by the public.

Ways and means of further improving the efficiency and operation of the city government is another objective of the city administration. Modernization of the water, sanitation, communications and purchasing systems is specifically scheduled, plus conversion to data processing equipment for billing and record keeping. A third objective is "more clearly defined city policies" for better serving the public through "establishment of more direct procedures and additional employee training."

Industry to Locate

Industry is the fourth major goal of the city for 1960. An influx of industry is foreseen and Mr. Alder reports the city is now working toward location of one specific major industry in Upland and foresees realization of this project in 1960.

Number five of the municipal objectives is the generation of interest in annexation to Upland by adjacent areas. "We will render assistance, by providing information and figures, to areas interested in annexing to the city," Mr. Alder stated.

Sixth and final proposal is launching of the new planting program for Euclid Ave. center parkway, with the African Fern Pine to be utilized instead of the pepper trees.

The immediate past has seen Upland on a march of progress and City Manager Alder has documented what he considers the major steps forward of the previous four years. He categorizes these accomplishments as follows:

1. Planning

In the area of planning, the capital improvements program was originated with its water, civic center and parks and recreation committees. A Federal planning program, whereby city funds were matched with Federal funds, financed study of the capital improvement recommendations, preparation of a new zoning ordinance and a new master plan. A policy of preserving street trees existing in all commercial districts in the city was adopted, and

Progress Of Upland Chamber Recorded From Start In 1910

By Lillian Hilde (Secretary Upland Chamber of Commerce)

Paging back over the years, we find that there are no minutes on record up to 1921. However the Chamber of Commerce was organized by a group of civic minded businessmen in 1910, and it has been ascertained that J. J. Atwood (now deceased) of the J. J. Atwood Co., was the first president of the Chamber.

Over the years, names of many representative citizens of Upland appear frequently on the list of directors and committees. Beginning from 1950, those who served as president were Walter Holts, Robert Frady, Charles Dunlap, Paul Hottel, Ralph Miller, Leslie H. Boyd and C. G. Shores. Charles F. Benninghoff was elected to the office of president on Sept. 1, 1959, for a term of one year, and will serve until Sept. 1, 1960.

Nothing Easy

The president's office is not an easy one, nor is that of the Directors. These civic minded people spend many hours and give generously of their time and efforts to the Chamber of Commerce work for the betterment of the community.

Many civic improvements and projects can be attributed to the Chamber of Commerce, either by supporting or carrying the entire responsibility. To name a few, we go back again, over the years.

The Los Angeles County Fair Exhibit, a prize winning project, to which the Chamber still contributes financially, even though the Jr. Chamber of Commerce puts in the exhibit.

Free city mail delivery, changing phone and power cables to underground, securing utility offices in Upland, new street lights in the downtown district, free parking lots, opening of Santa Fe crossing at 2nd Ave. The Chamber sponsored the Upland 50th Anniversary Celebration in May of 1956, which had an attendance of over 100,000 people.

Participation last year in the West End Industrial Tour, tour and prizes for Best Decorated Christmas Homes.

Compiling brochures and maps of Upland, Industrial brochure, Industrial survey and many more activities which would take more space to describe than this allows.

The Chamber's program for the coming year, under direction of President Benninghoff, include participation in the Upland Birthday celebration in May of this year; a program to emphasize the agricultural industry; civic promotion and development of parks and beautification of the city; an all out expansion of membership; an active Industrial Committee and a welcome committee for new business.

The Chamber office at 433 N. Second Ave. maintains many services.

Information of all types for the City of Upland, such as recreation, business, schools, churches, tax rate, real estate values.

Gas Co. Reports Impressive Growth Of Upland Business

The year 1959 was a year of continued growth for Southern Counties Gas Co. in its Eastern division — but then, so has every year since 1911, when the gas coming first began serving customers in this area, which embraces Ontario and Upland, Pomona Valley, and east San Gabriel Valley.

To be exact, it was in 1919 that Southern Counties began service to a handful of customers in Upland and Ontario. At that time the total number of meters served by the company in what is now its Eastern division was a mere 9,000.

During 1959, gas company Division Manager Homer R. Mead estimated that the firm will have added 6510 customers to its Eastern division lines. At year-end 1958, Southern Counties had 119,832 customers in this division, while at the end of 1959 the figure was approximately 126,342. In 1960, the company expects to add 9100 new meter connections in this division.

Impressive Growth

As for Upland, its growth, particularly since 1940, has been impressive. In August of that year there were 1693 gas customers; ten years later there were 2617; and by August 1956 there were 3857. The latest available figures show gas customers in Upland number 4827.

To take care of continued expansion throughout its Eastern division during 1960, Southern Counties has earmarked $1,800,000.

The growth experienced by the gas company has not been confined to any one particular area, nor to any single type of usage. Not only has the number of residential customers increased, but the many widespread industrial uses of gas in the area have also continued to grow and to become more diversified.

Gas Lights Come Back

Another interesting example of growth which has taken place in recent years is, in effect, a harking-back to former times. This, of course, is the revival of outdoor gas lights, and the local area has kept pace with the rest of Southern California by taking the warm, nostalgically glowing gas lamps to its heart.

Southern Counties is showing its faith in an expanding future in this area not only with plans for capital investment, but also by laying the groundwork for the future.

Southern Counties and its affiliated companies are constantly striving to bring more and more natural gas supplies from out of state so that future customers, as well as present ones, will always be served.

The problem of adequate gas supplies for the future has been compounded, Mr. Mead points out, by the decline in California natural gas production available to the gas company. More than 75 per cent of the current primary gas supply of Southern Counties and its sister company, Southern California Gas Co., now comes from Texas and New Mexico sources, 1200 miles away from final distribution centers.

Out-of-State Supply

Out-of-state gas supplies now amount to more than one billion cubic feet per day average. That's a lot of natural gas but perhaps it will help to visualize the amounts when one says that the one billion cubic feet of gas have the energy equivalent of a train of 960 fuel oil tank cars.

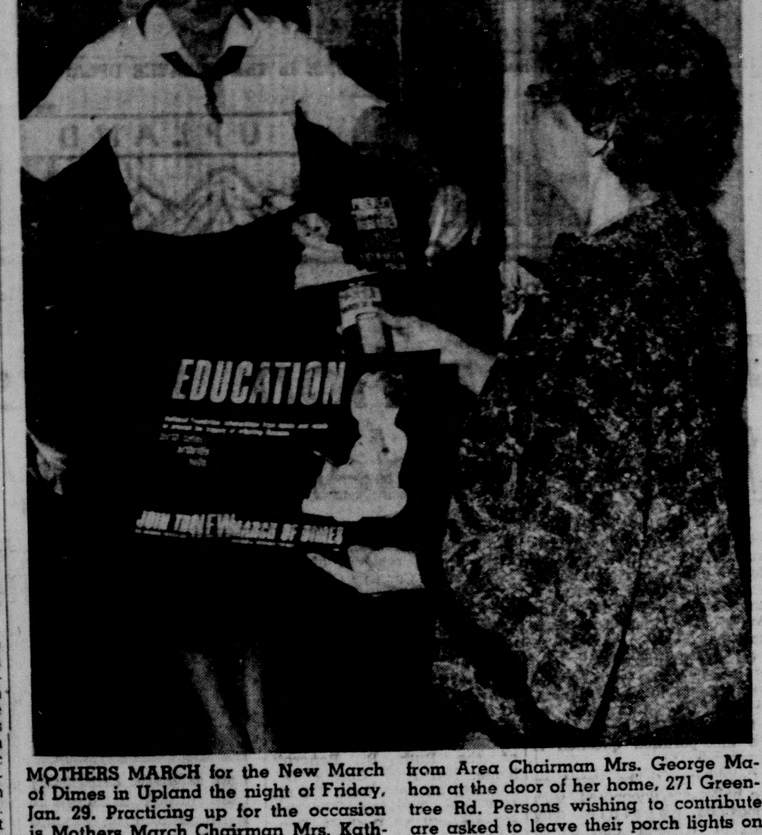

It takes Texas and New Mexico gas 48 hours from the time it leaves a producing field to reach Southland homes or industries.

Southern Counties and Southern California Gas Co.s take delivery of gas at the Colorado River at Blythe. From there the gas is compressed three times: Once at Blythe and again at Desert Center and Cactus City, in Riverside County, for its more than 200-mile journey to the consumer.

The gas is carried in three 30-inch-diameter pipelines. Investment in these pipelines and compressor stations on the part of the two Southland distribution companies is nearly $700 million.

Fourth Pipeline

Already approved by the Federal Power Commission and the California Public Utilities Commission is a fourth pipeline system, by which the two southern California gas companies would receive an additional 300 million cubic feet of gas daily at the California-Arizona border from Transwestern Pipeline Co. Pending approval is a project which would bring Rocky Mountain and, eventually, Canadian gas in large quantities into the Southland distributing area. This project may take the final steps toward becoming a reality within the coming year.

Upland College Grows With City

Christian Campus Fits In Church Community

Upland College, formerly of Beulah College, was organized and opened September 6, 1920 by the California Council of the Brethren in Christ Church. Upland, first specializing in a junior college and Bible curriculum was founded as a Christan educational system where people might receive a liberal arts education in a Christian environment.

During the first 15 years of her history, Upland College was located at Third Ave. and F St. in Upland. On Jan. 20, 1935, a site at Arrow Hwy. and San Antonio Ave. was purchased and the college moved to this more accommodating location. Additional plots of ground adjacent to this site have been purchased and added to the campus until the present size totals approximately 15 acres owned or optioned by the college.

Service Expands

An expansion of curriculum and community service paralleled this physical growth. In June, 1940, the first class was graduated with the Bachelor of Arts degree and on March 10, 1949, the name of the institution was officially changed to Upland College. On Feb. 26, 1959, the college became accredited and was admitted to membership in the Western College Association.

The college is housed principally in seven different buildings. Central to the campus is the Chapel at the corner of Arrow Hwy., and San Antonio Ave. The Chapel will seat 375 persons and is used daily for chapel service by the college. The Administration-Library building is located east of the Chapel at the same intersection. All administrative offices are located in the attractive two-story stone and stucco structure. The lower floor houses the 15,000 volume library. Besides a large number of current periodicals, pamphlet and document files and audio-visual aids, the Library contains one of the largest collections of educational journals and instructional materials in San Bernardino County.

Campus Buildings

Most of the classes are held in three different buildings: The Classroom Building houses most of the classes, whereas the Physics Building and the Home Economics-Science Building house the science courses. The recently completed Physics Building contains a demonstration classroom and the laboratory for physics instruction, and the Science Building houses all classes in chemistry and biological science.

The college gymnasium contains a regulation size basketball floor, two basketball practice courts, and facilities for tennis, volleyball, and badminton. The building with its large stage, can be used for assemblies to accommodate as many as 1,000 people.

A large number of the Upland College student body come from other communities and states. On-campus housing facilities include two dormitories. Sierra Vista Hall on Alpine St. is a modern stucco structure with twelve double rooms which serves as the women's dormitory. Byer Hall, the men's dormitory, is a ten-room, two-story structure south of the Administration building.

Liberal Arts

Upland College offers a liberal arts program which prepares students for a great variety of professions and advanced studies. The college offers majors in eight fields and instruction in 11 other areas. Major studies include English, Music, Biology, History, Sociology, Bible - Religion, and Teacher Education. Other instructional areas include Speech, Philosophy, Art, Modern Languages, Mathematics, Chemistry, Psychology, Economics, Home Economics, Business Education, and Health and Physical Education.

The student body has an enrollment of 125 students who represent approximately 25 different denominations and come from 13 states as well as one foreign country.

Upland College graduates will total over 800 at the close of this school year. Almost 100 have entered the Christian ministry and over 100 are teaching in elementary and secondary schools and colleges. Eight graduates have become medical doctors and 26 have become nurses. Approximately ten per cent of the teachers of the Ontario and Upland elementary schools are graduates of or former students at Upland College.

Prospects for Future

Upland College will grow in order to keep pace with the community. The increasing demands for quality education are being met at Upland College. Upland is in the educational hub of this great Southern California valley. The community of Upland enjoys the privilege of being a cultured community with a college environment.

Plans for physical expansion of the college plant are on the derawing board. The new full-size athletic field needs only the finishing touches. The proposed new Administration-Library building will add much needed space and an attractive new building. Because of the expected increase in dormitory students it is necessary to provide additional housing. The future promises an enlarged campus at Upland College, as endowments and current funds for operations are received.

Since the college has become accredited, more and more students have been looking to the college for an education. A considerable increase is assured for next school year. The outlook for the future is bright for Upland College. The college seeks to provide a bright future for Upland.

state and Canada and often other countries.

The questions asked of the Chamber often require considerable time and research and are too numerous to list.

Brochures and information from other areas in California and other states are available in the office, as are train, bus and air travel schedules.

Income tax blanks can be picked up in the office, also.

Data is often requested by both college and the lower grade students for their school work.

People in need ask the office secretary to direct them to the proper authorities for help.

These are only a few of the many, many services the Chamber of Commerce cheerfully offers to the general public.

The largest portion of financial support is through membership and every business should recognize the important part the Chamber of Commerce has in the promotion and development of the city. By doing their share in contributing to Chamber support, so that the work can be expanded still further, both business and residential interests will benefit the community as a whole.

Current officers of the Chamber, besides President Benninghoff, are Vice President Malcolm Wise and directors James Colgan, Paul Hottel, Mrs. Helen Nylander, J. T. Waller, Earl Weatherwax, Merle Conn, Charles Gehrken, Warren Roberts, Roland Sanders, Charles Walker.

Installation of officers for Ontario Chapter, Indpendent Order of Foresters, will take place Saturday, Jan. 30, 8 p.m., in the Fish and Game club house, John Galvin Park. Refreshments will conclude the program.

IN FOR REPAIRS at Lockheed, Ontario International Airport, was this Qan-Tas airliner, a Convair product. Overhaul of the mammoth planes at Lockheed has added considerable importance to the local airport.

IMPORTANCE OF THIS area in air traffic has been greatly increased by the designation of Ontario International Airport as a secondary terminal for jet airliners. This 707 Pan American airliner from the Tokyo-Hawaii run landed here Friday morning with 119 passengers when Los Angeles International Airport was smogged in.

the route location of the upper freeway was resolved.

2. Physical Accomplishments

Physical accomplishments by the city during the past sour years have realized major plans of many previous years. The Vehicle Parking District was created and the downtown parking lots installed. Sewer system and treatment plant improvements costing $800,000 were completed, and "perhaps the most important" achievement, the city's sanitary disposal site was established at a cost of $10,000.

Eleven other "physical" accomplishments outlined by Mr. Alder include construction of a Police Dept. pistol range, development of two ball parks at Eighth and Campus, creation of the Juvenile Bureau of the Police Dept., preparation and adoption of a new police manual, installations of a new phone system in the city hall, and adoption of a new city elecrtical code (the first change in 30 years);

Installation of larger transmission lines in the city water system, acquisition through purchase of option of more than 50 per cent of Ontario Water Co. stock, development o fa storm drainage channel on Bodenhamer St. between Ninth St. and the Santa Fe; construction of a 1½ million gallon water storage reservoir, and preparation and adoption of the Municipal Code.

3. Governmental Efficiency

Little remembered but important strides ahead in the improvement of efficient operation of Upland's city government were also cited by Mr. Alder as past accomplishments. These include conversion to machine accounting in the city hall business offices, change of procedures so that bids submitted to the city are now opened and tabulated in advance of city council meetings and recommendations of the city manager and engineer submitted to the council with the bids;

Change of the council meeting night to expedite publication of legal notices to save time for petitioners; placement on a self - supporting basis of the city-wide garbage and rubbish pickup service, centralization of employee recruitment from a departmental basis adoption of more skillful methods of employing personnel through testing and interviewing, and improving utilization of existing city hall floor space.

4. Employer-Employee Relations

Realizing that a "happy family" within the personnel of a city stimulates more achievement, Mr. Alder also included employer - employee relations as a category of city progress. He points to establishment of an up-to-date employee classification and salary plan, introduction of employee ratings for performance, employee awards and an annual banquet, addition of fringe benefits including health insurance paid for by the city, and survivors' benefits added to the plan with a major portion of the cost paid by the city.

These internal, external, physical and methods improvements indicate robust progress for the City of Upland, and the objectives for this year of a new decade, point to greater tasks and greater performance ahead.

STUDENTS with their dreams on space get down to earth about it at Chaffey College's new Aeronautics Building on the Alta Loma campus.

Two 3-Time Losers In TCL Tilt Friday

By Chuck Benninghoff

Upland has all but eliminated itself from the TCL championship race, after dropping their Friday night game against Chino.

The Highlanders now have a one win, three loss record. The next TCL game will be against Bonita, Friday, Jan. 29. The Bonita Bearcats should not prove too hard to knock off, having also lost three previous games.

Despite their lack of height, the Bearcats have a good ball club. In the Chino Tournament they received the sportsmanship award, after being eliminated in the second round of action.

With the Highlanders dropping three games, one might think that something is missing. Upland has some height, and their victory over Colton proves that they can hustle.

But Corona stopped Upland cold in the Highlanders' gym, which was not so surprising, after the visitors decisioned Claremont with a 39-32 tally (Claremont drew a victory of 44-49 over the Highlanders in the initial TCL game), but the 24 point performance of Randy Schulz for Corona and Lou Black's 15 point show for the Highlanders was rather disheartening. Lou Black has only a 15.9 average in League action, as compared to a 20. average for the non-league contests.

Against Bonita, Lou will be fighting for high point honors with Alan Hadley, who sports an even 15. average per League contest.

Coach Lloyd Conner and his Bee Basketball Team have been doing quite well, with a three-win and one-loss League record.

High point man on the Bee cagers is Jim Fink, who sports a 11. average per contest. Second to the high-scoring Fink is a toss-up between Bob Bittner and R. C. Hinman, both sporting about 6.00 average per game. Top in rebounds for the Bee cagers is Bob Bruce.

Lightweight Prep Cagers Impressive In 45-27 Win

Jim Fink came through with his usual performance, copping high point honors with 13, and led Upland High School Bee cagers to an impressive 45-27 victory over the Pomona Red Devils, Jan. 15.

Coach Lloyd Conners of Upland stated "The boys finally started playing the type of ball they are able to play."

R.C. Hinman took second place honors by sinking 8, with two other cagers placing in 6, Bob Bittner and Steve Snyder. Substituting for Bittner and Snyder were floormen David Cox and Toby Valadez. Both helped the cause with 3.

JV's Make It 5 Straight, 55-49

Upland High School's Junior Varsity has taken up where their big brothers have left off, by winning their fifth straight contest in a row, and in the process, stamping a 55-49 defeat on the Boy's Christian Junior Varsity team, Jan. 21.

Jim Fisher copped honors with 18 points, and boosted himself to top scoring position of the Highlander team.

Upland found itself at the short end of the halftime score, but scored 21 points in the third quarter and held their opponents to a bare 13. However this was nothing, compared to the seven points allowed Boy's Christian in the fourth. Upland employed a three man press to take the lead.

Coach Dean Westgaurd's cagers, after losing four straight, picked up their first win at the hands of Covina, and have not lost a game since.

Downing Eisenhower High School by a 54-19 margin came as a shock to the Ike High coach, but after strengthening his forces for a second encounter with the Highlanders with varsity cagers, he lost again. However, the Upland quintet had to come from behind to cop this victory.

Next game played by the J.V.'s will be Friday, Jan. 26, against San Bernardino, there.

Dee Cagers Dunk

Upland High's Dee Basketball team was victorious in scoring a 19-17 win over West Covina Friday, Jan. 15.

Coach Harley Lovitt's high point man was Tony Blatnick, who followed through with nine, and was followed by Rich Evans and Tim Olagy who scored 4 apiece.

This was the second win for the Upland cagers.

Upland scorers: Blatnick (8), Tim Olagy (4), Richard Evans (4), Ken Walker (3).

First Home Game For UC Girl Cagers On Feb. 11th

First home basketball game for Upland College in the newly formed Women's Christian Athletic Assn. is scheduled in the Upland College gymnasium at 7 p.m. Feb. 11.

Opposition will be furnished by LIFE College. The public is permitted to attend the girls' games.

Polly Payne, physical education teacher, is coach of the feminine cagers who captured their initial league contest at Southern California Bible College in Costa Mesa recently, 65-15.

The Upland College six — national court rules for women include six players on the team instead of the men's five — plays 10 league contests this season. Chances are, since the Upland College women's teams has been in playoffs with Pasadena Nazarene College for the last two years, there will be playoff games.

Other WCAA teams are Biola of Los Angeles, Azusa College, and Young Russians Christian Assn.

The Upland College women have been practicing since October.

Other principal differences in the feminine basketball games as compare to the men's were listed by Coach Payne as guards only playing the back court and forwards only playing the forecourt an only two dribbles of the ball allowed before it must be passed or shot.

Performers include forwards Carole Engle, Mary Ellen Wingerd, Fern Wingerd, Linda Book, Diana Markley, Cathy Nissly, Ruth Ann Yost, and Frances Cooper and guards Norene Trautwein, Sue Leach, Dora Woodrow, Claudia Cummins, Kaaron Cummins, Grace

Team managers are Pat Nissly and Ada Fisher.

Chino Takes Upland For 4th TCL Win

Upland High School Cagers lost their third TCL contest by a 52-45 margin to the visiting Chino Cowboys Friday, Jan. 22.

High point man for both teams was Leonard Frketich, scoring 20 tallies for the Cowboys.

Lou Black lost his eagle eye for the contest, sinking only four of seven free throw attempts, and five field goals. All of Black's missed free-throws were in the first half and the rest of the Highlander team followed suit by falling behind, 23-10, at the end of the first quarter. Upland gained slightly by dunking in 14 tallies to Chino's 11, in the second period, but still ended on the short end of a 24-34 half time tally.

Frketich Controls

Frketich controlled the boards for the Cowboys, while lanky Lou Schmutz did same for the home team. Spider Weldon, Upland's second high scorer, amassed 10 points, on five field goals. Weldon got only one chance at the charity line, but did not follow through.

Upland employed a five man press throughout the game, but got no results because of the fine ball handling of the Cowboys. Chino employed this procedure but once when the Highlanders started a rally of three straight baskets soon after the second half tip-off. The press worked well, slowing down the Highlanders and allowing them only four points the balance of the quarter.

Misses Free Tosses

Lou Schmutz, who was the chief rebounder for the Highlanders, can be credited with only four tallies, all coming on field goals. Schmutz missed all three of his free throw attempts.

If Upand's 1-2-3 punch of Black - Weldon - Schmutz could improve their shooting, Upland High would greatly profit.

Chino temporarily stopped action in the remaining two minutes of the fourth quarter by passing the ball around, until Upland's Tom Saters got desperate and fouled Dick Tams. Tams missed his chance and Lou Schmutz stole the rebound from the hands of Frektich sprawling on the floorboards.

The Highlanders sped the ball down to their basket where the final tally of the night came at the hands of Lou Black.

Wins, Then Faints

As the game ended, Dick Tams of the Cowboys came off the floor entirely spent, and fainted into the hands of his teammates who were completely happy with their team's performance.

The complacent Cowboy coach, Frank Elder, commented, "The boys did nothing wrong tonight. A lot of hustle and drive enabled us to win our fourth straight Tri-County league contest."

All Highlander coach Jerry Kehr could say about his team was, "They just couldn't get started in the first quarter."

1 Win, 2 Losses In Practice Play

In practice tilts prior to opening of the regular league season the Upland Junior High Raiders chalked up one victory against two defeats. The victory, 27-20, was over St. Joseph of Pomona, while the losses were to Redeemer Lutheran, 37-17, and Colton, 44-14.

Players for the local casaba quintet in these practice games were Bob Likins (4), Lon Jordan, Dan Merritt (1), Ron Tenoglio (16), Derwin Blackwood, Jerry King (3), Jim Zitterkopf (10), John Caldera (14), Wayne Harmon (2), Craig Beck (2), Felix Quesada (6), Ray Brancacio, Randy Otmar and Victor Dominick.

Raiders Win Two Of Three

The "flu bug" took its toll from both teams, but the Upland Junior High School Raiders were able to nab two of three tilts from DeAnza Junior High of Ontario.

In a low scoring fray the local "A" quintet collected, 14-8, and the sharper shooting "C" five won, 33-22. The illness riddled "B's" were trounced, 26-12, by a classy DeAnza team.

Playing on the Upland High School court the low scoring "A" contest moved slowly. Jim Zitterkopf again topped the point gatherers with seven.

The "bug" and a snappy DeAnza "B" quintet combined to hand the Upland "B" team its first defeat of the season, 26-12, Saturday. The locals were unable to hit the bucket or control the boards and trailed throughout the game. Richard Robbins dropped in six points to lead the scorers.

Forward Richard Meneley swished 13 tallies to lead local "C" scorers in their second league victory of the season.

How Folks Tick Told BPW Club

Upland Business and Professional Women's Club met in Upland Women's Club House Thursday, Jan. 14.

Program for the evening was presented by Flora Kushin, membership chairman. She introduced Roland Balen, management consultant and personnel analyst from Los Angeles and Riverside.

Mr. Balen originated the Tick-master, a device used to determine personality traits. It is used by many municipalities, including Upland, in choosing office personnel. Mr. Balen showed not only how people tick, but also why people tick as they do.

New member introduced was Mrs. Bernice Weatherhead. Guests for the evening were Ruby Van Wert, Flo Basinger, Ethel Pfaff and Helen Reagin.

President Hal Bailin presided at the meeting, and Al Canestro, program chairman, introduced the entertainers. The Music Makers, a barbershop quartet from Pasadena, presented a group of special vocal arrangements, after which Elegant Ethyl, keyboard and vocal stylist, sang and played for the group.

Center Of Campus At Campus Center

Center of the new Chaffey campus, socially as well as in location, will be the new student union, which will be known as the campus center, according to Leonard Mather, dean of Student Personnel.

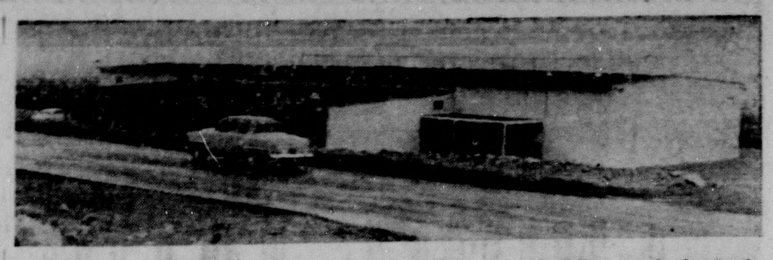

Entering from the north over the terrazzo floors of the entry hall, the open air patio is the first attraction in view. On the left of the patio is the student dining room. Sixty by 80 ft. in size, the dining room will seat approximately 450. A view of either the mountains or the patio will be offered by the two glass walls in this room.

The dining room will be decorated in six pastel colors, and like the rest of the campus center, will have no dominating color scheme. According to Dean Mather, the campus center will be "a riot of colors." The chairs in the dining room will be a bucket style made of fiber glass.

To the north of the dining room is the student lounge. The lounge will be four feet higher than the dining room, and thus will allow storage for the dining room equipment, since the dining room will be used for student dances. The lounge itself will be 60 by 30 ft. There will be comfortable modern furniture with a fireplace in the center of the room. The lounge will look out a glass north wall to an outdoor stage which will be used for rallys and other activities.
